

Kaitlin Dorsch, CPA, CFE

I am excited to have been nominated as a candidate for Treasurer of the Long Island ACFE for the 2 year term of 2016-2017. As an active member of the NextGen Committee for the New York State Society of CPA's – Suffolk Chapter, a committee of young leaders active in the community, in their companies, and in the future of business, I see an interest in the fraud industry among emerging leaders.

In my 6 years of Public Accounting experience, I have developed a non-profit and litigation support specialty. I have advanced knowledge in Microsoft Office and QuickBooks, financial reporting, internal controls of small companies, and feel confident in my abilities to assist the Organization.

As Treasurer, I would be responsible for the oversight of the scholarship fund. I believe students are the next generation of not only business, but of the Long Island ACFE. I would work with the committee to make the LIACFE known to students across the island, the opportunities the Organization provides, and the scholarships available to those interested in a career or specialty in fraud prevention.

With my constant interaction with other professionals, I would work hard to continue to build the community of fraud professionals and develop interest in the field and the Organization. I believe the Organization provides great training at a more than reasonable cost and I would like to continue to see this happen and grow the training topics, the speakers, and the audience.
